EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The Adult Education—Basic Grants to States program authorized under the Adult Education and Family Literacy Act of 1998 (AEFLA), enacted as Title II of the Workforce Investment Act of 1998 (WIA) (P.L. 105–220), was the major source of federal support for adult basic education (ABE) and literacy education programs for the 2012–13 program year (PY).<sup>1</sup> When AEFLA was authorized in 1998, Congress made accountability for student results a central focus of the new law, setting out new performance accountability requirements for state<sup>2</sup> and local programs that measure program effectiveness on the basis of student academic achievement and employment-related outcomes. The Office of Career, Technical, and Adult Education (OCTAE) in the U.S. Department of Education (Department) established the National Reporting System for Adult Education (NRS)<sup>3</sup> in program year (PY) 2000–01 to implement the accountability requirements of AEFLA and act as a reservoir of data collected under these measures.

This report covers the 13th year<sup>4</sup> of implementing the AEFLA requirements using the NRS. OCTAE, as part of its efforts to monitor data collection procedures and promote data quality improvement, developed data quality standards to clarify the policies, processes, and materials that state and local programs should have in place to collect valid and reliable data. OCTAE assisted states in meeting the congressionally enacted AEFLA standards by (1) providing technical assistance to improve data quality and (2) refining NRS requirements, including producing guidelines for conducting follow-up surveys used to obtain data on particular measures. OCTAE also has provided specially designed technical assistance to states on implementing the data collection and reporting requirements of AEFLA through the NRS.

The Department is required by Sec. 212(c)(2)(C) of AEFLA to make available and issue to Congress and the public the AEFLA annual report. Information on each state’s yearly performance

<sup>1</sup> The AEFLA grant program funds each of the 50 states of the United States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, and the outlying areas of the United States, including the U.S. Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, and the Republic of Palau.

<sup>2</sup> The term “State” means “each of the several States of the U.S., the District of Columbia, and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico,” as defined in Sec. 203(17) of AEFLA. However, for purposes of this report, the term “state” will refer to each of the 50 states of the U.S., the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, and the following outlying areas of the U.S., which also receive funding: the U.S. Virgin Islands, Guam, the Northern Mariana Islands, American Samoa, and Palau.

<sup>3</sup> Information regarding the NRS may be accessed on the NRS website (<http://www.nrsweb.org/>). The NRS was established in program year (PY) 2000–01.

<sup>4</sup> The Adult Education—Basic Grants to States program year begins July 1 and ends June 30 of the next year. For example, program year (PY) 2012–13 refers to July 1, 2012 through June 30, 2013.

in the Adult Education—Basic Grants to States program is included in the annual report, as are aggregated data on national performance.

Highlights

The Adult Education—Basic Grants to States program enrolled 1,708,105<sup>5</sup> learners during program year (PY) 2012–13, of whom 48 percent were enrolled in adult basic education (ABE), 12 percent were enrolled in adult secondary education (ASE), and 40 percent were enrolled in English literacy (EL) programs.

Table ES-1 provides a summary of actual performance on the core outcome measures for adult education under the NRS during a three-year period, PY 2010–11 through PY 2012–13. Performance data for educational gains are collected on all participants in the adult education program. Before PY 2012–13, performance data were collected only for participants who set a goal of achieving the performance measures for high school completion, entering postsecondary education or training, entering employment, and retaining employment, while beginning in PY 2012–13, performance data on those outcomes were collected for NRS-defined cohorts.<sup>6</sup>

In ABE/ASE,<sup>7</sup> the percentage of adults demonstrating educational gain, from one educational functioning level to the next, increased by one percentage point, from 42 percent in PY 2010–11 to 43 percent in both PY 2011–12 and PY 2012–13. In EL, the percentage of adults demonstrating educational gain also showed minor growth, increasing from 44 percent in PY 2010–11 to 46 percent in both PY 2011–12 and PY 2012–13. The 2012–13 year was the first year of implementing the cohort system for performance measures. Therefore, 2012–13 represents a new baseline year for these measures, and data are not comparable to previous years. As shown in Table ES-1, students achieving performance measures in PY 2012–13 ranged from 29 percent for entering postsecondary education to 70 percent for high school completion.

<sup>5</sup> Data from the outlying areas are included in the aggregate national tables in this report. Due to the small enrollment numbers reported in the outlying areas, their state level data are not presented in order to protect student identity.

<sup>7</sup> “ABE/ASE” means “adult basic education/adult secondary education.” ABE/ASE consists of six educational functioning levels with four levels in ABE—beginning literacy, beginning basic, low intermediate, and high intermediate; and two levels in ASE—low secondary and high secondary.

<sup>a</sup> Percentage of enrolled adults who completed one or more educational functioning levels. Educational gain data are collected on all participants in the adult education program, whether they are enrolled in ASE, ABE, or EL.

<sup>b</sup> Percentage of adults who set the stated outcome as a goal and who achieved the goal for PY 2010–11 and PY 2011–12. For PY 2012–13, percentage represents adults who are in the defined cohort and who achieved the outcome.

Note: “ABE/ASE” means “students in adult basic education/adult secondary education programs.” ABE/ASE consists of six educational functioning levels with four levels in ABE—beginning literacy, beginning basic, low intermediate, and high intermediate; and two levels in ASE—low secondary and high secondary. However, Educational Gain ABE/ASE calculations do not include the number of students who completed the high adult secondary education (ASE High) level. Because the NRS does not identify exit scores and therefore each state uses varying criteria to determine completion of the ASE High level, performance data are not standardized and cannot be compared across states at the national level. “PY” means “program year.”

INTRODUCTION

Adult education programs under the Adult Education and Family Literacy Act of 1998 (AEFLA) address our nation’s critical need to improve adult literacy skills and enhance the other skills necessary for adults to be more productive members of society and the workforce. AEFLA, enacted as Title II of the Workforce Investment Act of 1998 (WIA) (P.L. 105–220), is the principal source of federal support for adult basic skills programs.<sup>8</sup> The purposes of AEFLA, as defined in Sec. 202, are to

- “(1) assist adults to become literate and obtain the knowledge and skills necessary for employment and self-sufficiency;
- (2) assist adults who are parents to obtain the educational skills necessary to become full partners in the educational development of their children; and
- (3) assist adults in the completion of a secondary school education.”

Sec. 203(1) of AEFLA defines “adult education” as “services or instruction below the postsecondary level for individuals (A) who have attained 16 years of age; (B) who are not enrolled or required to be enrolled in secondary school under State law; and (C) who (i) lack sufficient mastery of basic educational skills to enable the individuals to function effectively in society; (ii) do not have a secondary school diploma or its recognized equivalent, and have not achieved an equivalent level of education; or (iii) are unable to speak, read, or write the English language.” The state-administered<sup>9</sup> AEFLA grants are allocated by formula based upon each state’s count of “qualifying adults.”<sup>10</sup> Data on the number of qualifying adults are drawn from the U.S. Census of Population and Housing.

The federal allocation for AEFLA grants to states for PY 2012–13 was $594,993,333.<sup>11</sup> As required by AEFLA, states distributed 82.5 percent of the federal funds competitively to local adult education providers using the 12 considerations identified in Sec. 231(e) of AEFLA.<sup>12</sup>

<sup>8</sup> The AEFLA grant program funds each of the 50 states of the United States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, and the outlying areas of the United States, including the U.S. Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, and the Republic of Palau.

<sup>9</sup> The term “State” means “each of the several States of the U.S., the District of Columbia, and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico,” as defined in Sec. 203(17) of the Adult Education and Family Literacy Act of 1998. However, for purposes of this report, the term “state” will refer to each of the 50 states of the U.S., the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, and the following outlying areas of the U.S., which also receive funding—the U.S. Virgin Islands, Guam, the Northern Mariana Islands, American Samoa, and Palau.

<sup>10</sup> Sec. 211(d) of AEFLA defines a “qualifying adult” as one who is at least 16 years of age, beyond the age of compulsory school attendance under the law of the state, does not have a secondary school diploma or its recognized equivalent, and is not enrolled in secondary school.

<sup>11</sup> The $594,993,333 federal allocation for AEFLA grants to states and outlying areas for PY 2012–13 includes $74,708,534 for English literacy/civics, a formula program based on the latest legal permanent resident data from the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services.

<sup>12</sup> See Appendix B of this report.

The local provider network includes a variety of agencies—local educational agencies (LEAs), community colleges, community-based organizations, and volunteer literacy organizations. Many adult education programs also work with human service agencies at the state and local levels to provide basic skills instruction to adults who are receiving benefits under Temporary Assistance for Needy Families, a U.S. Department of Health and Human Services program intended to promote self-sufficiency. In addition, AEFLA state grants provide basic skills instruction to adults who are in job training programs supported by WIA Title I funding administered by the U.S. Department of Labor.

Courses of instruction offered by local providers include:

- adult basic education (ABE) instruction for adults whose literacy skills range from the lowest literacy levels to just below the high school literacy level;
- adult secondary education (ASE) instruction for adults whose literacy skills are at approximately the high school level and who seek to obtain a high school diploma or an equivalent high school credential; and
- English literacy (EL) instruction for adults who lack proficiency in English and who seek to improve their literacy and competence in English.

Adult Education Enrollment and Participant Status

In program year (PY) 2012–13, the AEFLA program enrolled 1,708,105 learners, with 48 percent of learners enrolled in ABE, 12 percent enrolled in ASE, and 40 percent enrolled in EL programs, as indicated in Table 1.

Program Type	Enrollment Numbers	Enrollment Percentages

Adult education serves a variety of populations. Table 2 shows the number and percentage of students, by program type and age, who were enrolled during PY 2012–13. Overall, 34 percent of students were under age 25, and 81 percent were under age 45. Only 4 percent were aged 60 or older. Age distribution, however, varied by program type. ASE students, with 56 percent under age 25, tended to be younger than both ABE and EL students, with 44 percent and 15 percent, respectively, under age 25. EL students, with 28 percent over age 44, tended to be older than both ABE and ASE students, with 15 percent and 9 percent, respectively, over age 44. Fifty-six percent of EL students were in the 25–44 age range, compared with 42 percent of ABE and 36 percent of ASE students in this age range.

The participation of 16- to 18-year-olds in adult education is of particular interest to policy makers because earning a high school diploma through the regular elementary and secondary education system is the traditional path for youths in this age cohort. Table 2 indicates that 10 percent of adult education participants were between the ages of 16 and 18 in PY 2012–13, with little change in this percentage since PY 2010–11. Of the 166,966 students in adult education programs in PY 2012–13 who were 16–18 years old, most were in ABE: 65 percent (107,662 adults), compared with 28 percent (46,501 adults) in ASE and 8 percent (12,803 adults) in EL. Therefore, a majority of 16- to 18-year-olds entered into adult education programs at a level that suggests they lacked the literacy skills expected at the high school level.

Table 3 provides disaggregated information regarding adult learners categorized by race/ethnicity and age. Hispanics or Latinos represented the largest group enrolled in adult education in PY 2012–13, accounting for 41 percent of the total enrollment, followed by whites at 26 percent and blacks or African-Americans at 22 percent. Whites represented the largest proportion of 16- to 18-year-olds (43 percent). Hispanic or Latino students represented the largest proportion of adult learners in the remaining age categories: 36 percent of 19- to 24-year-olds, 46 percent of 25- to 44-year-olds, 41 percent of 45- to 59-year-olds, and 35 percent of those 60 years and older.

The extent to which 16- to 18-year-olds participated in adult education programs varied widely among states. One reason for this variance may be linked to the difference in each state’s age requirement for compulsory school attendance.<sup>13</sup> Table 4 shows the five states, including Puerto Rico, with the highest numbers and percentages of young adults, aged 16 to 18, enrolled or served through AEFLA programs. Although some states with the largest populations, such as Florida and California, have the highest number of adult education students aged 16 to 18, some states with small populations, such as Vermont, have high percentages of students aged 16 to 18, despite relatively low numbers overall.<sup>14</sup>

<sup>a</sup> The term “State” means “each of the several States of the United States, the District of Columbia, and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico,” as defined in Sec. 203(17) of AEFLA. However, for the purposes of this report, the term “state” will refer to each of the 50 states of the United States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, and the following outlying areas of the United States, which also receive funding: the U.S. Virgin Islands, Guam, Northern Mariana Islands, American Samoa, and Palau.

Note: Due to the small enrollment numbers reported in the outlying areas, their data are not presented in the individual state profiles in order to protect student identity.

Adults enter adult education programs from a variety of circumstances. Table 5 indicates that in PY 2012–13, 568,219 students self-reported entering the program while employed; 635,771 students self-reported entering the program while unemployed; 300,958 students self-reported entering the program while on public assistance; 170,900 students self-reported entering the program while in correctional facilities; and 16,526 students self-reported entering the program while in other institutional settings. Note, however, that not all students reported their status, and some reported in more than one category.

Status	Number
Employed	568,219
Unemployed	635,771
On Public Assistance	300,958
Correctional Setting	170,900
Other Institutionalized	16,526

Note: The participant status of each student is self-reported. Not all students self-reported their status and some students reported in more than one category (e.g., a student can be unemployed and on public assistance).

ACCOUNTABILITY SYSTEM—THE NATIONAL REPORTING SYSTEM FOR ADULT EDUCATION

Since PY 2000–01, the National Reporting System for Adult Education (NRS)<sup>15</sup> has been the national accountability and data reporting system on student outcomes for federal adult education programs. The U.S. Department of Education (Department) published NRS Implementation Guidelines: Measures and Methods for the National Reporting System for Adult Education, which identifies defined measures for national reporting, establishes methodologies for data collection, and maintains standards for reporting. Each state has established a performance accountability system that meets NRS requirements. The NRS data are the basis for assessing the effectiveness of states in achieving the continuous improvement of adult education and literacy activities to optimize the return on investment of federal funds. The NRS includes the following three core indicators of performance, identified in Sec. 212(b)(2)(A) of AEFLA, that are used to assess state performance:

- “(i) Demonstrated improvements in literacy skill levels in reading, writing, and speaking the English language, numeracy, problem solving, English language acquisition, and other literacy skills
- (ii) Placement in, retention in, or completion of, postsecondary education, training, unsubsidized employment or career advancement
- (iii) Receipt of a secondary school diploma or its recognized equivalent.”

These indicators of performance are represented and defined by the following five adult learner outcome measures of the NRS:

- Educational Gain—The percentage of adult learners in basic and English literacy programs who acquired the basic or English language skills needed (as validated through standardized assessments) to complete the educational functioning level in which they were initially enrolled.

To demonstrate improved skill levels, as required in Sec. 212(b)(2)(A)(i) of AEFLA, the Department established a hierarchy of six educational functioning levels<sup>16</sup> to measure basic literacy from beginning literacy through high school completion, and six levels to measure English literacy from beginning literacy to the advanced level. The levels are defined through reading, writing, numeracy, and functional and workplace skills (and, for English literacy, speaking and listening skills) at each level. Included for each level is a corresponding set of benchmarks from commonly used standardized assessments.

- High School Completion—Prior to PY 2012–13, the percentage of adult learners with a high school completion goal who earned a high school diploma or recognized equivalent.

Beginning in PY 2012–13, this refers to the percentage of adult learners who take all secondary credential tests or are enrolled in adult high school at the high ASE level and who earned a high school diploma or recognized equivalent after program exit.

- Entered Postsecondary Education or Training—Prior to PY 2012–13, the percentage of adult learners with a postsecondary education goal who entered postsecondary education or training after program exit.

Beginning in PY 2012–13, this refers to the percentage of adult learners who entered with a secondary credential, earned a secondary credential while enrolled, or enrolled in a college transition class, who entered postsecondary education or training after program exit.

- Entered Employment—Prior to PY 2012–13, the percentage of unemployed adult learners (in the labor force) with an employment goal who were employed within one quarter<sup>17</sup> after program exit.

Beginning in PY 2012–13, this refers to the percentage of unemployed adult learners (in the workforce) who obtained a job within one quarter<sup>18</sup> after program exit.

- Retained Employment—Prior to PY 2012–13, the percentage of adult learners with (1) a job retention goal at the time of enrollment and (2) an employment goal who obtained work by the end of the first quarter after exiting the program and who were employed at the end of the third quarter after program exit.

Beginning in PY 2012–13, this refers to the percentage of adult learners (1) employed or (2) who entered unemployed in the workforce and obtained work by the end of the first quarter after exiting the program and who were employed at the end of the third quarter after program exit.

States also may identify additional performance indicators for adult education and literacy activities and incorporate these indicators, as well as corresponding annual levels of performance, in their state plans.

Incentive Grants

States that exceeded their target performance levels in WLA Title I<sup>19</sup> and Title II<sup>20</sup> were eligible for state incentive grants<sup>21</sup> in PY 2012–13. Table 6 shows the number of states that were eligible for an incentive grant by exceeding both their WLA Title I and Title II target performance levels from PY 2012–13.

The target performance levels for Title II are negotiated between the state and the Department. This negotiated target is called the “adjusted level of performance,”<sup>22</sup> and that level is set for each of the five outcome measures. The determination of whether a state has exceeded its overall adjusted level of performance is based on the state’s average performance across all measures. This is derived by calculating the percentage of the state-adjusted level of performance achieved for each measure and then averaging the percentages achieved across all measures. When this cumulative average exceeds 100 percent, the state is deemed to have exceeded its adjusted levels of performance. In PY 2012–13, the eight states that were eligible to receive incentive awards were Georgia, Idaho, Indiana, Maine, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, and Texas.

Program Year	Exceeded Title II of WIA	Exceeded Titles I and II of WIA	Amount of Award Funds Available
2012–13	20	8	$9.9 million
2011–12	22	15	$10.4 million
2010–11	19	8	$10.4 million

Note: Sec. 503 of the Workforce Investment Act (WIA) does not include outlying areas as eligible entities to receive an incentive grant. For the purposes of this section of the report, the term “state” will only refer to “each of the several States of the United States, the District of Columbia, and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico,” as defined in Sec. 203(17) of the Adult Education and Family Literacy Act of 1998. WIA means the Workforce Investment Act of 1998. Title I of WIA is the Workforce Investment Systems program. Title II of WIA is the Adult Education and Literacy program

Source: U.S. Department of Labor, Employment Training Administration, Federal Register notice of incentive funding availability for program years 2010–11, and 2011–12, and 2012–13 performance, available at http://www.doleta.gov/performance/results/incentives\_sanctions.cfm

<sup>21</sup> Sec. 503 of the Workforce Investment Act (WIA) does not include outlying areas as eligible entities to receive an incentive grant. For purposes of this section of the report, the term “State,” as defined in Sec. 203(17) of AEFLA, only refers to “each of the several States of the U.S., the District of Columbia, and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.”

Sec. 503 of WLA indicates that state incentive grants are to be issued in an amount not less than $750,000 and not more than $3,000,000, to the extent that funds are available; otherwise, prorated amounts are to be awarded. Funds<sup>23</sup> for the incentive grants set aside under AEFLA totaled $9,884,265 for state performance in PY 2012–13. No funds for the incentive grants were set aside under Title I of WLA.

Measuring Educational Gain

For NRS reporting, each state must establish standardized assessment procedures that local programs must follow to measure the educational gains of their adult learners. Although these procedures vary from state to state, they all incorporate a pre- and post-test approach under which local programs must assess an adult learner’s educational functioning level at the time of enrollment and after a period of instruction. Although states must use standardized pre-and post-assessments, they are free to use the assessments that best address the needs of their students and delivery system. The most frequently used assessments are the Tests of Adult Basic Education (TABE), Comprehensive Adult Student Assessment System (CASAS), and the Basic English Skills Test (BEST Literacy or BEST Plus).<sup>24</sup> All assessments used in the adult education program are reviewed by the Department and determined to be suitable for use in the NRS.<sup>25</sup>

ABE/ASE<sup>26</sup> and EL programs each have six educational functioning levels: four levels in ABE, two levels in ASE, and six levels in EL, as indicated in Figure 1. Figure 1 presents PY 2012–13 adult education enrollment figures by educational functioning level as determined by a standardized pretest administered to each student upon program entrance.

As Figure 1 indicates, most students were enrolled in the programs of ABE and ASE. Within ABE and ASE, the largest percentage of student enrollment (31 percent) was in the ABE high intermediate level, and the smallest percentage of student enrollment (4 percent) was in the ABE beginning literacy level. Most students within ABE and ASE (59 percent) were enrolled in the combined ABE intermediate levels.

<sup>23</sup> The fiscal year (FY) 2013 funds support the PY 2012–13 incentive grant awards, pursuant to Sec. 211(a)(3) of AEFLA, which makes 1.72 percent available to qualifying states that exceed the WLA Title I and Title II adjusted levels of performance for incentive grants.

<sup>25</sup> “Tests Determined To Be Suitable for Use in the National Reporting System for Adult Education (NRS).” 76 FR 56188 (Sept. 12, 2011)

<sup>26</sup> “ABE/ASE” means “adult basic education/adult secondary education.” ABE/ASE consists of six educational functioning levels, with four levels in ABE—beginning literacy, beginning basic, low intermediate, and high intermediate, and two levels in ASE—low secondary and high secondary.

In EL, the largest percentage of student enrollment (21 percent) was in the EL low intermediate level, and the smallest percentage (11 percent) was in the EL low beginning level. Forty-five percent of EL students were enrolled in the combined beginning levels.

Notes: "ABE/ASE" means "adult basic education/adult secondary education." ABE/ASE consists of six educational functioning levels, with four levels in ABE—beginning literacy, beginning basic, low intermediate, and high intermediate, and two levels in ASE—low secondary and high secondary. EL refers to the English literacy program. The percentages are rounded figures and therefore may not add to 100 percent.

Measuring Other Outcomes

Setting and measuring goals for the four “follow-up” outcome measures,<sup>27</sup> as discussed in the NRS section of this report, allows adult education students to specify what they want to accomplish through an adult education program. The goal-setting approach was in effect until PY 2012–13. However, beginning in PY 2012–13, that approach was replaced by a cohort approach, which reports performance measures for students within demographically defined cohorts (see the NRS section of this report). States may collect data on these measures by consulting administrative records (called “data matching”) or through follow-up surveys with former students. The use of administrative records, when available, is the more accurate and cost-effective collection method.

Figure 2 identifies the methods by which states currently collect data for the four follow-up measures, which require programs to follow up with students who have left an adult education program. In PY 2012–13, 39 states used administrative records to determine student outcomes for the high school completion measure. Ten states used surveys and eight states used a combination of administrative records and surveys for tracking this measure.

For measuring students’ entrance into postsecondary education, 29 states used administrative records, 12 states used individual student surveys, and 16 used both in PY 2012–13. To assist states in addressing challenges associated with data matching for the postsecondary follow-up measure, the Statewide Longitudinal Data Systems (SLDS) Grants program<sup>28</sup> was designed to aid state education agencies in the development and implementation of SLDSs through a competitive discretionary grant process. The data systems funded through this grant program securely follow students from early education through the workforce and facilitate the disaggregation, reporting, and analyses of longitudinal data.

Consulting state unemployment insurance (UI) wage records (an example of an administrative record used) is the most efficient, accurate, and cost-effective approach to determining the post-program employment outcomes. However, not all states have the capability to use their UI system due to state privacy laws or technical issues. In PY 2012–13, 34 states used their UI system to report on the “entered employment” outcome measure; 11 used surveys; and 12 used a combination of both. For reporting on the “retained employment” outcome measure, 34 states used their UI system; 11 used surveys; and another 12 used a combination of their UI system and surveys.

<sup>27</sup> In the NRS, educational gain is an outcome measure and goal that states track and report for all students participating in their adult education programs. However, it is not considered a “follow-up” measure. For the four follow-up outcome measures, adult learners set their own goals.

<sup>28</sup> The SLDS Grant Program is administered by the Institute of Education Sciences (IES)’s National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) in the U.S. Department of Education.

Note: The term “State” means “each of the several States of the United States, the District of Columbia, and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico,” as defined in Sec. 203(17) of the Adult Education and Family Literacy Act of 1998. However, for purposes of this report, the term “state” will refer to each of the 50 states of the United States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, and the following outlying areas of the United States, which also receive funding: the U.S. Virgin Islands, Guam, the Northern Mariana Islands, American Samoa, and Palau.

Data related to the educational gain performance measure do not require follow-up data collection methods. Consequently, information on this measure is not included in this figure.

FEDERAL INVESTMENTS TO IMPROVE DATA QUALITY AND ITS USE FOR PROGRAM IMPROVEMENT

OCTAE has provided states with training and technical assistance to improve the quality and increase the use of NRS data. This assistance has included multiday training sessions and the development of guidebooks that address (1) the implementation of NRS requirements; (2) the conduct of follow-up surveys; and (3) other data quality and program improvement issues. Since 2001, OCTAE has also made training resources available online for adult educators. It has established NRS data quality standards, which identify the policies, processes, and materials that state and local programs should have in place to collect valid and reliable data. The standards define data quality policies and procedures and guide states on how to improve their systems.

Federal Implementation Assistance in PY 2012–13

OCTAE’s assistance to states during the first few years of the NRS focused on the implementation of the NRS requirements, the development of data systems, and the improvement of data quality. In

Without this training, thorough and valid research would not have been considered. With the exploratory study, I am aware of what is entailed to make it worthwhile and valuable and valid. Overall, everything about this training [is] considered as strengths.

— “Myth Busters: The Truth About Adult Education” training participant

PY 2012–13, OCTAE built on earlier data quality development activities and assisted state and local programs in using the data for their own reporting, program management, and program improvement. In the summer of 2013, OCTAE sponsored three regional training sessions entitled “Myth Busters: The Truth About Adult Education.” A total of 82 attendees from 28 states and territories participated. The two-day training was designed to assist states in using their NRS data to “bust” common myths and to conduct research related to adult education students, teachers, or programs. Each event provided participants with the opportunity to learn about the basic concepts of evaluation research, including research question development, research design, and data analysis and reporting.

In addition to three regional training sessions, during PY 2012–13, OCTAE sponsored the webinar series “Promising Practices in Program Management and Data Use.” OCTAE continues to sponsor new webinars in this currently ongoing series. Each webinar centers on a specific strategy for using data for program improvement. Several states have presented their data demonstrating success in implementing these strategies. OCTAE supports technical assistance, which includes in-person workshops, hands-on experiences, and training in the use of the NRSWeb (<http://www.nrsweb.org>). This site is the adult education practitioner’s resource for NRS policies and procedures, changes to the federal accountability requirements and guidelines, publications and related information, direct online training, materials from face-to-face training, webinars, and calendar of events. In PY 2012–13, NRSWeb offered nine interactive, self-guided online training modules that included 31 courses designed specifically for adult education staff. These courses allow trainees to work independently at their own pace as they follow the instructions contained in the web training materials. The courses cover NRS basics, data quality, and data use. In PY 2012–13, users of NRSWeb completed over 3,860 courses.

OCTAE sponsored one facilitated, online course in PY 2012–13, “NRS Basics.” It was designed to introduce staff with little or no knowledge of the NRS to its fundamentals. Topics covered included the following: monitoring; data collection and use; types of data and measures; assessments; and data quality.

NRS Implementation by States

Because their data systems have become more sophisticated, many states can now rely on real-time data to set performance standards, monitor local performance, and implement performance-based funding. Administrators, teachers, and support staff are now using these data to improve program effectiveness.

OCTAE-supported training has prepared local staff in many states to access and use their data on a regular basis. The training demonstrates how programs can use their performance data to identify effective practices for classroom instruction, professional development, and goal setting, and to determine what support mechanisms will help learners persist long enough to reach their education, training, and employment goals. The training helps local staff participate more effectively in the program improvement process. As a result of the training, some states reported that teachers are using these data for their classes and posting graphs of these data outside their classrooms for their students and other teachers to see.

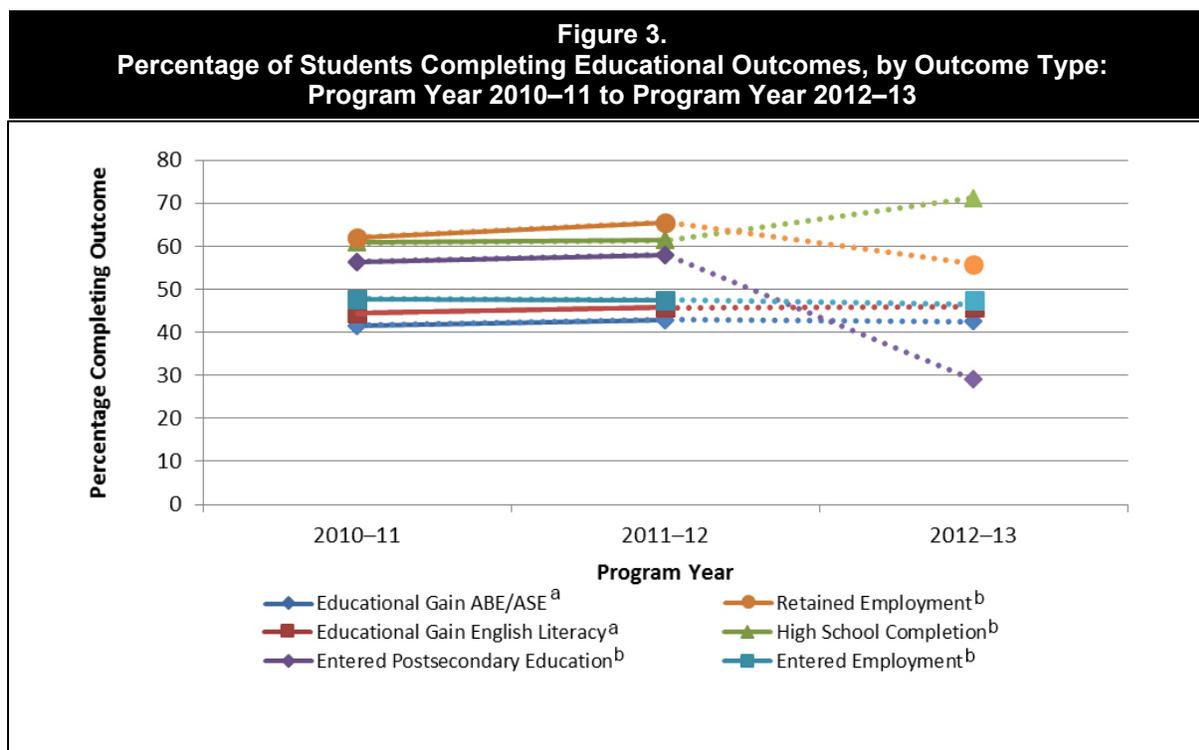

States are using their data to also address larger programmatic questions and to identify trends. For example, some are examining whether managed or open enrollment<sup>29</sup> is better for students. In addition, states are developing ways to account for program efficiencies and outcomes in per-unit costs. States are also using longitudinal data to track the progress of their adult education students toward college and career readiness.

<sup>29</sup> A managed enrollment policy allows a student to enter an instructional program only during specific enrollment periods. An open enrollment policy allows a student to enter a program at any time (National Center for the Study of Adult Learning and Literacy, Adult Student Persistence, May 2006).

SUMMARY OF NATIONAL PERFORMANCE RESULTS

PY 2012–13 marked the 13th year of implementation of the NRS accountability requirements. Figure 3 shows the percentages of students completing each of the outcome measures for adult education under the NRS from PY 2010–11 to PY 2012–13. The percentage of adults achieving educational gains in ABE/ASE and EL increased slightly over the three years. PY 2012–13 was the first year of implementing the cohort system for follow-up measures. Therefore, PY 2012–13 represents a new baseline year for these measures and data are not comparable to previous years. The rate of high school completion for PY 2012–13 was 71 percent, while the percentage of adults entering postsecondary education or training was lower at 29 percent. The percentage of adults entering employment was 47 percent, and the percentage of adults retaining employment was 56 percent. More information on student performance as indicated by each of the performance measures is shown in figures 4 through 9.

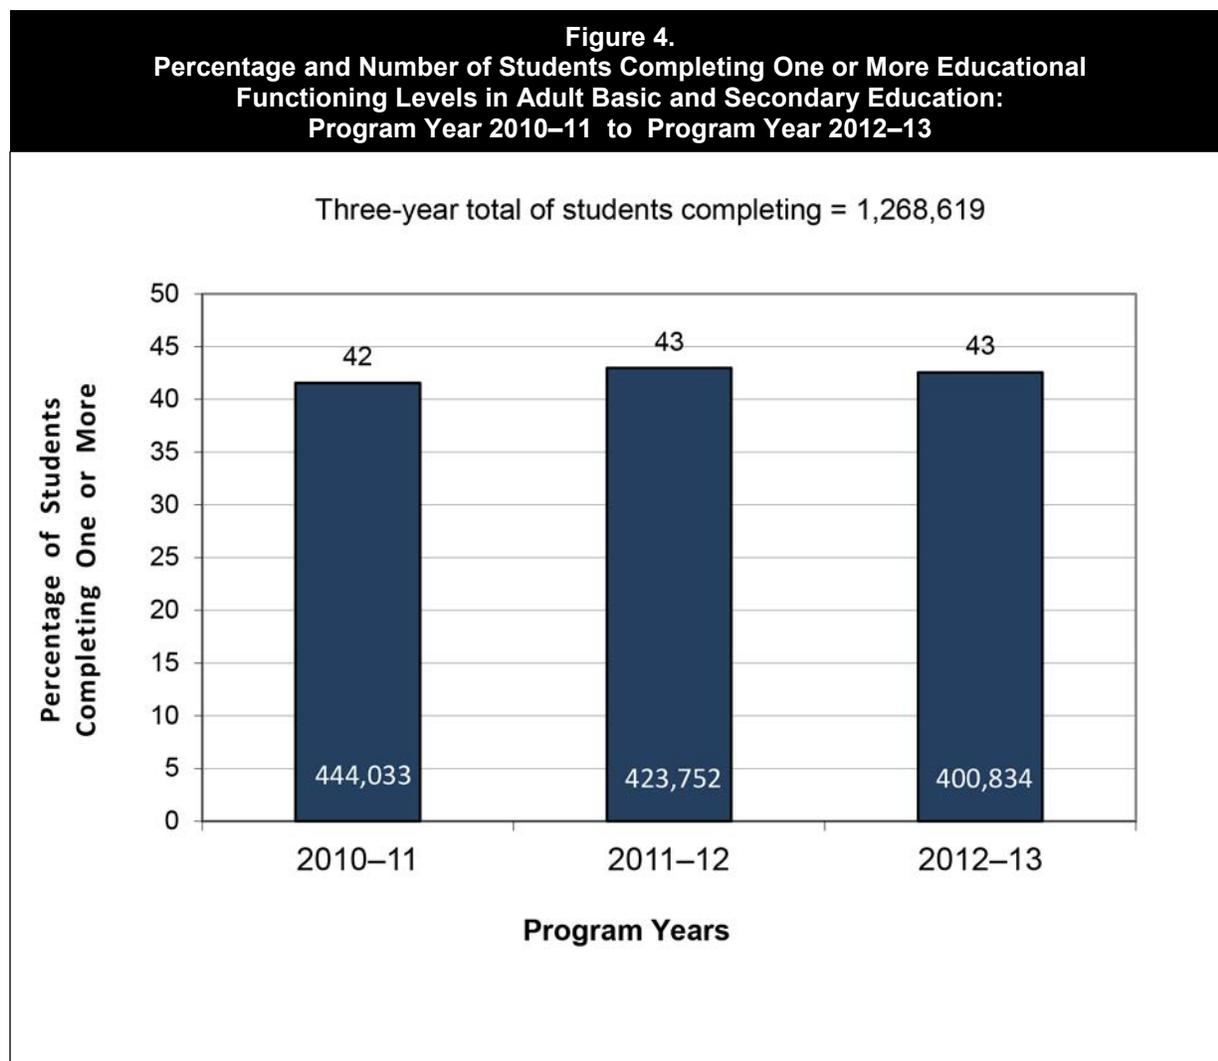

<sup>a</sup> Percentage of enrolled adults who completed one or more educational functioning levels. Educational gain data are collected on all participants in the adult education program whether they are enrolled in ASE, ABE, or EL.

<sup>b</sup> Percentage of adults who set the stated outcome as a goal and who achieved the goal for PY 2010–11 and PY 2011–12. For PY 2012–13, percentage represents adults who are in the defined cohort and who achieved the outcome.

Notes: ABE means adult basic education. ASE means adult secondary education. Calculations do not include the number of students who completed the high adult secondary education (ASE High) level. Because the NRS does not identify exit scores and therefore each state uses varying criteria to determine completion of the ASE High level, performance data is not standardized and cannot be compared across states at the national level. The dotted lines indicate that the PY 2012–13 data points are not comparable with the corresponding PY 2010–11 and PY 2011–12 data points. Since PY 2012–13 was the first year of implementing the cohort system for follow-up measures, the data for PY 2012–13 were not comparable with previous years' data.

Figure 4 shows the percentage and number of enrolled adults who acquired the basic literacy skills needed to complete at least one ABE/ASE educational functioning level.<sup>30</sup> The percentage of students advancing one or more educational functioning levels increased slightly, from 42 percent to 43 percent, between PY 2010–11 and PY 2012–13, while the number of these students slightly decreased over this same time period. A total of 1,268,619 adults advanced at least one educational functioning level over the three years.

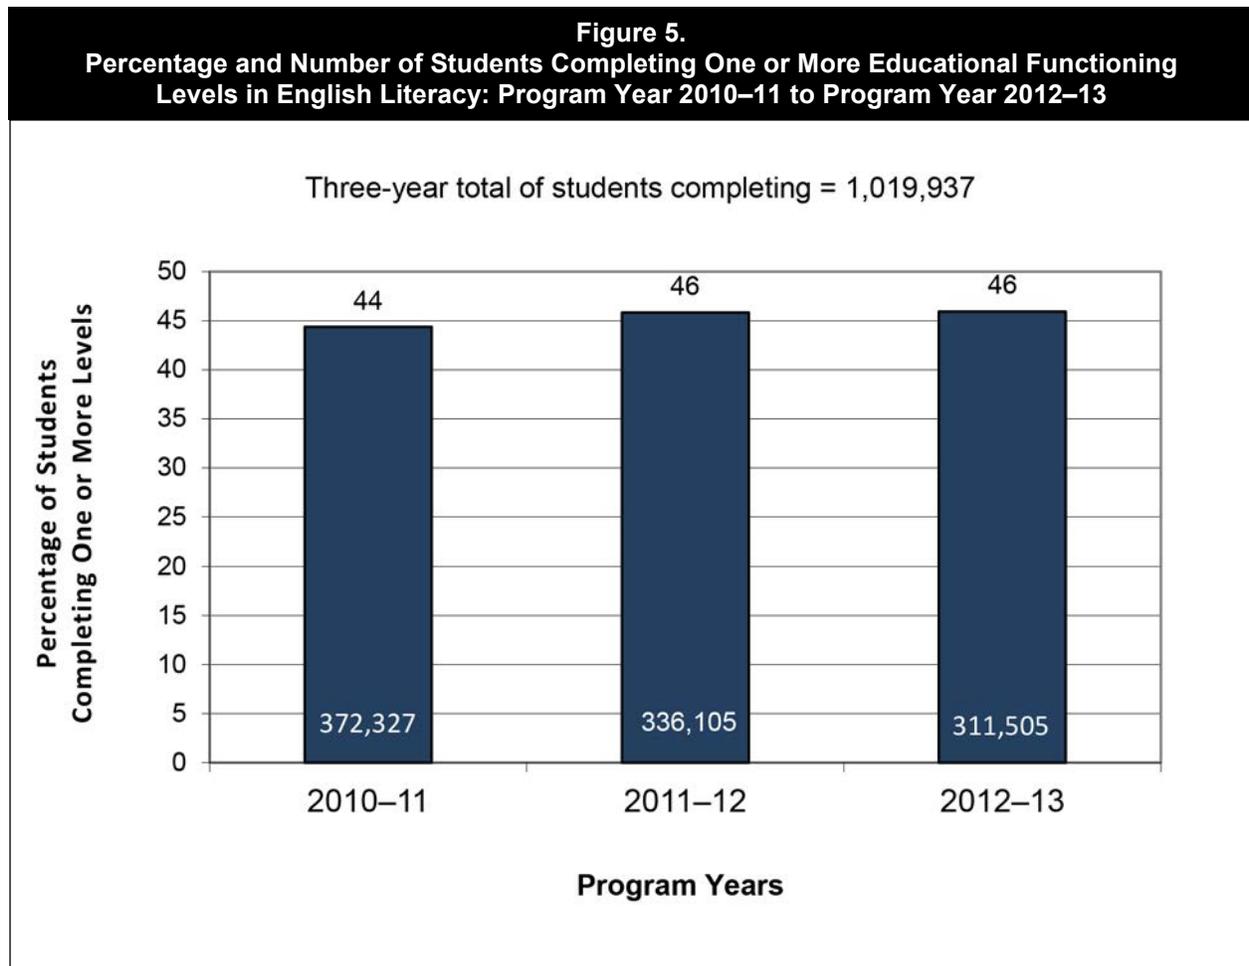

Notes: Percentage totals reflect rounded figures. Numbers and percentages do not include students who completed the high adult secondary education (ASE High) level. Because the NRS does not identify exit scores and therefore each state uses varying criteria to determine completion of the ASE High level, performance data is not standardized and cannot be compared across states at the national level. The educational functioning levels for adult basic and secondary education are beginning literacy, beginning basic, low intermediate, high intermediate, low secondary and high secondary. The decrease in the total number of students completing from one program year to the next is due to decreased enrollment.

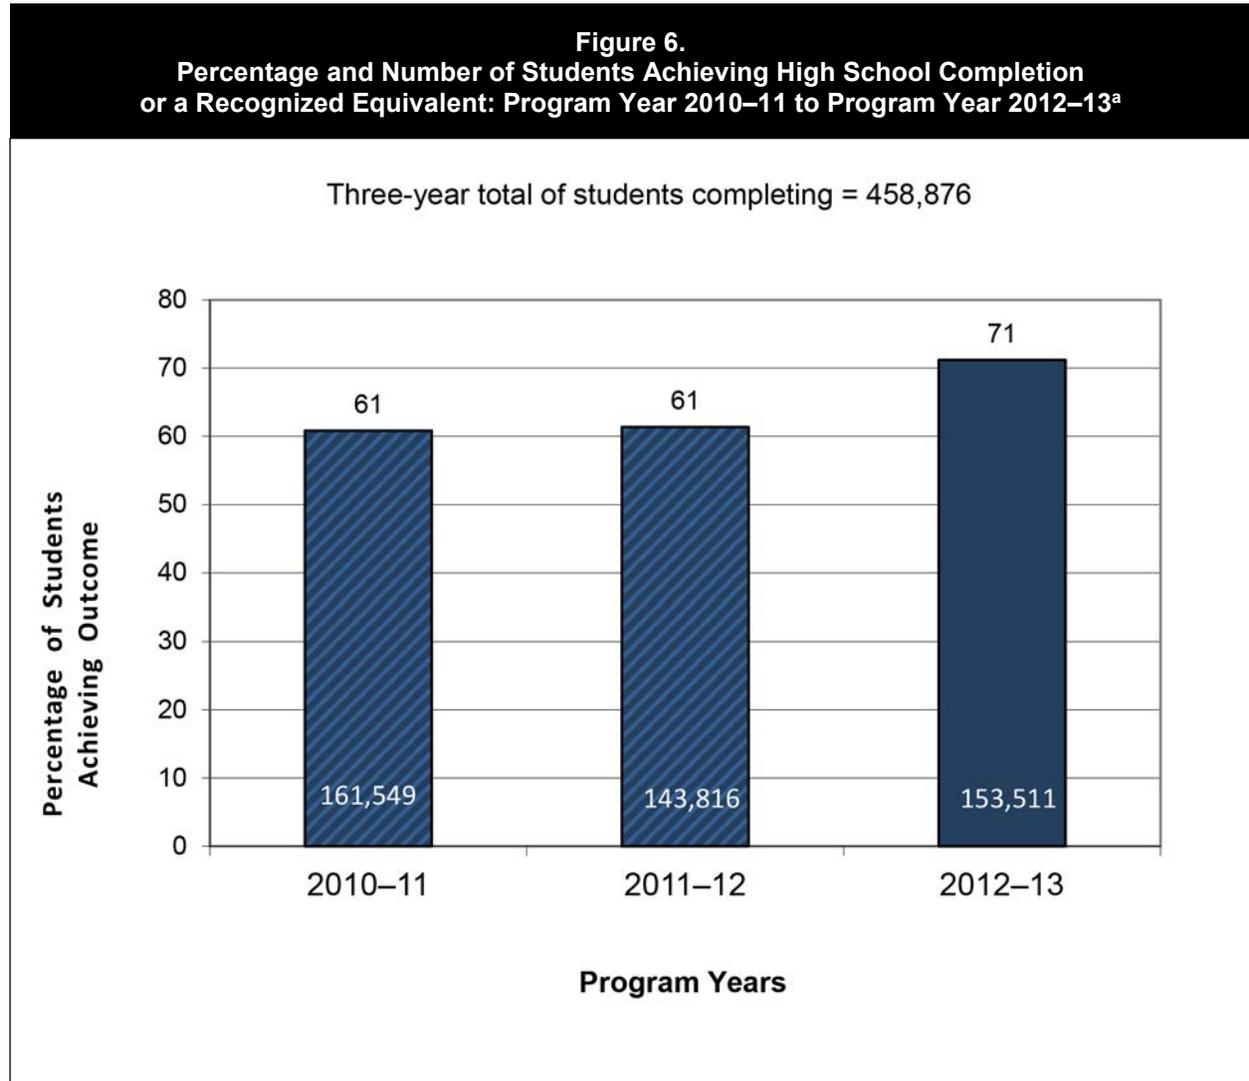

Figure 5 shows the percentage and number of enrolled adults who acquired the basic English literacy skills needed to complete at least one educational functioning level. The percentage of students who did so in PY 2012–13 was 46 and included 311,505 students. The total number of students who advanced one or more levels over the three years was 1,019,937.

Notes: Percentage totals reflect rounded figures. The educational functioning levels for English literacy are beginning literacy, low beginning, high beginning, low intermediate, high intermediate, and advanced. Earning a high school diploma or a recognized equivalent is one of the four outcome-related goals that students can set. Figure 6 shows the percentage and number of enrolled adults who completed high school or a recognized equivalent. This percentage was 71 in 2012–13. The total number of students who completed high school or a recognized equivalent over the three years was 458,876.

Figure 8 shows the percentage and number of unemployed students who entered employment one-quarter after exiting postsecondary education or training. In PY 2012–13, 47 percent of students entered employment one quarter after exit. The three-year total of students achieving this outcome was 336,010.

Figure 9 shows the percentage and number of students who retained employment. In PY 2012–13, 56 percent of students did so. A total of 404,490 students achieved the outcome over the three years.

To be included under the retained employment goal, an adult learner must have (1) a job retention goal at the time of enrollment or (2) an employment goal where the adult learner obtained work by the end of the first quarter after exiting the program and was employed at the end of the third quarter after program exit.

APPENDIX A: NATIONAL AND STATE PROFILES OF SELECTED ADULT EDUCATION PROGRAM AND STUDENT INFORMATION, FROM PROGRAM YEAR 2010–11 TO PROGRAM YEAR 2012–13

The following pages provide selected program and student information at the national level and for each of the 50 states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico,<sup>31</sup> for program years (PY) 2010–11, PY 2011–12, and PY 2012–13, and show performance trends over these last three program years. The first page of each profile provides student demographic and enrollment data. The participant status figure shows the number of students who were either employed, unemployed, in a correctional setting, on public assistance, or in another institutional setting for PY 2010–11, PY 2011–12, and PY 2012–13. The fiscal year (FY) 2012 federal allocations to states funding figure displays the total Adult Education—Basic Grants to States program allocation for FY 2012, and, in each of the state profiles, this is shown relative to each state’s basic grant and English literacy/civics (EL/civics)<sup>32</sup> allocations. The enrollment by race/ethnicity figure displays PY 2012–13 adult basic education (ABE), adult secondary education (ASE), and EL enrollment numbers and percentages categorized by race/ethnicity enrollment, and include the percentage change from PY 2010–11. The retention and completion figure shows, for PY 2010–11, PY 2011–12 and PY 2012–13, a side-by-side graph of the number of participants who advanced to the next educational functioning level, remained in the same level, completed a level and separated from the program, or separated from the program without advancing a level. Finally, the enrollment by age figure shows participant enrollment by age for each of the three program years.

The second page of the national profile, as well as each of the state profiles, details participant performance for each of the five performance measures<sup>33</sup> in PY 2010–11, PY 2011–12, and PY 2012–13, including a three-year total for each performance measure. The performance measures are demonstrated improvement in literacy skills, high school completion, entered postsecondary education or training, entered employment, and retained employment. In addition to showing percentages for PY 2010–11, PY 2011–12, and PY 2012–13, the tables show the total number of participants completing at least one level or achieving the outcome for each performance measure.

<sup>31</sup> The term “State” means “each of the several States of the United States, the District of Columbia, and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico,” as defined in Sec. 203(17) of the Adult Education and Family Literacy Act of 1998. Data from the outlying areas, which include the U.S. Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, and the Republic of Palau, are included in the aggregate national tables in this report. Due to the small enrollment numbers reported in the outlying areas, their data are not presented in the individual State profiles in order to protect student identity.

<sup>32</sup> The English literacy/civics program provides integrated English literacy and civics education services to immigrants and other limited English proficient populations.

<sup>33</sup> The performance measures are discussed in the section Accountability System—The National Reporting System for Adult Education, beginning on p. 7 of this report.

<sup>b</sup> Data reflects whether adults made educational gains (performance measure I) or achieved other outcomes as indicated via performance measures II-V.

<sup>c</sup> Adult Basic and Secondary Education programs consist of six instructional levels representing a hierarchy of basic skills ranging from beginning literacy to high school completion. Data from levels one through five are depicted. States are not held accountable for the sixth educational functioning level, High Adult Secondary Education.

<sup>e</sup> The table reports a percentage of those students, prior to program year 2012—13, who identified the outcome as a goal during intake and achieved it. For program years 2012—13 and after, it reports a percentage of those within a cohort needing to achieve the outcome and successfully achieving it.

<sup>b</sup> Data reflects whether adults made educational gains (performance measure I) or achieved other outcomes as indicated via performance measures II-V.

<sup>c</sup> Adult Basic and Secondary Education programs consist of six instructional levels representing a hierarchy of basic skills ranging from beginning literacy to high school completion. Data from levels one through five are depicted. States are not held accountable for the sixth educational functioning level, High Adult Secondary Education.

<sup>e</sup> The table reports a percentage of those students, prior to program year 2012—13, who identified the outcome as a goal during intake and achieved it. For program years 2012—13 and after, it reports a percentage of those within a cohort needing to achieve the outcome and successfully achieving it.

<sup>b</sup> Data reflects whether adults made educational gains (performance measure I) or achieved other outcomes as indicated via performance measures II-V.

<sup>c</sup> Adult Basic and Secondary Education programs consist of six instructional levels representing a hierarchy of basic skills ranging from beginning literacy to high school completion. Data from levels one through five are depicted. States are not held accountable for the sixth educational functioning level, High Adult Secondary Education.

<sup>e</sup> The table reports a percentage of those students, prior to program year 2012—13, who identified the outcome as a goal during intake and achieved it. For program years 2012—13 and after, it reports a percentage of those within a cohort needing to achieve the outcome and successfully achieving it.

<sup>b</sup> Data reflects whether adults made educational gains (performance measure I) or achieved other outcomes as indicated via performance measures II-V.

<sup>c</sup> Adult Basic and Secondary Education programs consist of six instructional levels representing a hierarchy of basic skills ranging from beginning literacy to high school completion. Data from levels one through five are depicted. States are not held accountable for the sixth educational functioning level, High Adult Secondary Education.

<sup>e</sup> The table reports a percentage of those students, prior to program year 2012—13, who identified the outcome as a goal during intake and achieved it. For program years 2012—13 and after, it reports a percentage of those within a cohort needing to achieve the outcome and successfully achieving it.

<sup>b</sup> Data reflects whether adults made educational gains (performance measure I) or achieved other outcomes as indicated via performance measures II-V.

<sup>c</sup> Adult Basic and Secondary Education programs consist of six instructional levels representing a hierarchy of basic skills ranging from beginning literacy to high school completion. Data from levels one through five are depicted. States are not held accountable for the sixth educational functioning level, High Adult Secondary Education.

<sup>e</sup> The table reports a percentage of those students, prior to program year 2012—13, who identified the outcome as a goal during intake and achieved it. For program years 2012—13 and after, it reports a percentage of those within a cohort needing to achieve the outcome and successfully achieving it.

<sup>b</sup> Data reflects whether adults made educational gains (performance measure I) or achieved other outcomes as indicated via performance measures II-V.

<sup>c</sup> Adult Basic and Secondary Education programs consist of six instructional levels representing a hierarchy of basic skills ranging from beginning literacy to high school completion. Data from levels one through five are depicted. States are not held accountable for the sixth educational functioning level, High Adult Secondary Education.

<sup>e</sup> The table reports a percentage of those students, prior to program year 2012—13, who identified the outcome as a goal during intake and achieved it. For program years 2012—13 and after, it reports a percentage of those within a cohort needing to achieve the outcome and successfully achieving it.

<sup>b</sup> Data reflects whether adults made educational gains (performance measure I) or achieved other outcomes as indicated via performance measures II-V.

<sup>c</sup> Adult Basic and Secondary Education programs consist of six instructional levels representing a hierarchy of basic skills ranging from beginning literacy to high school completion. Data from levels one through five are depicted. States are not held accountable for the sixth educational functioning level, High Adult Secondary Education.

<sup>e</sup> The table reports a percentage of those students, prior to program year 2012—13, who identified the outcome as a goal during intake and achieved it. For program years 2012—13 and after, it reports a percentage of those within a cohort needing to achieve the outcome and successfully achieving it.

<sup>b</sup> Data reflects whether adults made educational gains (performance measure I) or achieved other outcomes as indicated via performance measures II-V.

<sup>c</sup> Adult Basic and Secondary Education programs consist of six instructional levels representing a hierarchy of basic skills ranging from beginning literacy to high school completion. Data from levels one through five are depicted. States are not held accountable for the sixth educational functioning level, High Adult Secondary Education.

<sup>e</sup> The table reports a percentage of those students, prior to program year 2012—13, who identified the outcome as a goal during intake and achieved it. For program years 2012—13 and after, it reports a percentage of those within a cohort needing to achieve the outcome and successfully achieving it.

<sup>b</sup> Data reflects whether adults made educational gains (performance measure I) or achieved other outcomes as indicated via performance measures II-V.

<sup>c</sup> Adult Basic and Secondary Education programs consist of six instructional levels representing a hierarchy of basic skills ranging from beginning literacy to high school completion. Data from levels one through five are depicted. States are not held accountable for the sixth educational functioning level, High Adult Secondary Education.

APPENDIX B: THE 12 CONSIDERATIONS IN AWARDING GRANTS UNDER SEC. 231(E) OF THE *ADULT EDUCATION AND FAMILY LITERACY ACT

The 12 considerations in awarding grants or contracts to eligible providers under Sec. 231(e) of the Adult Education and Family Literacy Act (AEFLA) that the state eligible agency must consider are

- “(1) the degree to which the eligible provider will establish measurable goals for participant outcomes;
- (2) the past effectiveness of an eligible provider in improving the literacy skills of adults and families, and, after the one-year period beginning with the adoption of an eligible agency's performance measures under section 212, the success of an eligible provider receiving funding under AEFLA in meeting or exceeding such performance measures, especially with respect to those adults with the lowest levels of literacy;
- (3) the commitment of the eligible provider to serve individuals in the community who are most in need of literacy services, including individuals who are low-income or have minimal literacy skills;
- (4) whether or not the program—(A) is of sufficient intensity and duration for participants to achieve substantial learning gains; and (B) uses instructional practices, such as phonemic awareness, systematic phonics, fluency, and reading comprehension that research has proven to be effective in teaching individuals to read;
- (5) whether the activities are built on a strong foundation of research and effective educational practice;
- (6) whether the activities effectively employ advances in technology, as appropriate, including the use of computers;
- (7) whether the activities provide learning in real life contexts to ensure that an individual has the skills needed to compete in the workplace and exercise the rights and responsibilities of citizenship;
- (8) whether the activities are staffed by well-trained instructors, counselors, and administrators;
- (9) whether the activities coordinate with other available resources in the community, such as by establishing strong links with elementary schools and secondary schools, postsecondary educational institutions, one-stop centers, job training programs, and social service agencies;

(10) whether the activities offer flexible schedules and support services (such as child care and transportation) that are necessary to enable individuals, including individuals with disabilities or other special needs, to attend and complete programs;

(11) whether the activities maintain a high-quality information management system that has the capacity to report participant outcomes and to monitor program performance against the eligible agency performance measures; and

(12) whether the local communities have a demonstrated need for additional English literacy programs.”

<sup>a</sup> The term "State" means "each of the several States of the U.S., the District of Columbia, and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico," as defined in Sec. 203(17) of the Adult Education and Family Literacy Act of 1998. The outlying areas include the U.S. Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, and the Republic of Palau. For the purposes of this report, the term "state" will refer to each of the 50 states of the U.S., the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, and the outlying areas in the U.S. Due to the small enrollment numbers reported in the outlying areas, their data are not presented in the individual state profiles in order to protect student identity.

Note: PY means program year.
