For the cost of guaranteed loans, $20,150,000, as authorized pursuant to part D of title III of the HEA, which shall remain available through September 30, 2024:¹ Provided, That such costs, including the cost of modifying such loans, shall be as defined in section 502 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974:² Provided further, That these funds are available to subsidize total loan principal, any part of which is to be guaranteed, not to exceed $752,065,725:³ Provided further, That these funds may be used to support loans to public and private Historically Black Colleges and Universities without regard to the limitations within section 344(a) of the HEA.⁴

In addition, for administrative expenses to carry out the Historically Black College and University Capital Financing Program entered into pursuant to part D of title III of the HEA, $528,000.⁵

NOTES

A full-year 2022 appropriation for this account was not enacted at the time the budget was prepared; therefore, the budget assumes this account is operating under the Continuing Appropriations Act, 2022 (Division A of P.L. 117-43, as amended). The amounts included for 2022 reflect the annualized level provided by the continuing resolution.

Each language provision that is followed by a footnote reference is explained in the Analysis of Language Provisions and Changes document which follows the appropriations language.

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

Since fiscal year 1996, the Historically Black Colleges and Universities Capital Financing Program has provided Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs) with access to capital financing for the repair, renovation, and, in exceptional circumstances, construction or acquisition of educational facilities, instructional equipment, research instrumentation, and physical infrastructure. HBCUs, which have played a prominent role in our Nation’s history, have significant needs for capital improvements. However, in most cases these institutions cannot access traditional funding sources at reasonable interest rates. The HBCU Capital Financing Program provides HBCUs with access to low-cost financing to fund infrastructure improvements. This program has made low-interest loans available for capital improvements to some of the Nation’s most vulnerable institutions of higher education. These loans have allowed these institutions to make improvements to their capital stock, especially academic facilities and student living quarters. In order to limit the Federal Government’s exposure to incurring losses due to defaults and delinquencies, 5 percent of all loans are deposited in a pooled escrow account from which loan payments can be made in the event of defaults or delinquencies.

The HBCU Capital Financing Advisory Board, appointed by the Secretary, advises the Secretary and the Designated Bonding Authority (DBA) as to the most effective and efficient means of implementing the program. The DBA, also selected by the Secretary, assists with the operation of the HBCU Capital Financing Program, which includes raising bond capital, making loans to eligible institutions, charging interest, and providing for a schedule of repayments. Direct loans are financed through the Federal Financing Bank, and guaranteed loans are financed through the private market, with all loan payments fully insured by the Federal Government.

Debt Discharges

The FAFSA Simplification Act, which was included in the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2021, signed into law in December 2020, provided authority and funding to discharge debts under the HBCU Capital Financing Program. The Department discharged approximately $1.6 billion of debt provided to participating institutions. This action provided debt relief to 45 HBCUs – 13 public institutions and 32 private institutions. Discharging these debts helped enable recipient institutions to focus their resources on supporting students, faculty, and staff for the duration of the COVID-19 national emergency.

Federal Administration

Funds for this activity pay the Federal costs for administering the HBCU Capital Financing Program. The administrative costs for this program include the personnel compensation and benefits for 2 full-time equivalent (FTE) employees, overhead, and other administrative services. The FTE reported in this account reflects the Department's estimate of the staff time devoted to administering the program. This estimate does not include FTEs associated with the Department's centralized services, which are reflected in the Program Administration account. The major non-personnel costs include support for the HBCU Capital Financing Advisory Board and a contract with the DBA to provide technical assistance workshops.

Loan Subsidy Costs

In the first 10 years that the HBCU Capital Financing Program operated, there were no delinquencies or defaults. The rigorous application and credit review process imposed by the Department and DBA was credited with ensuring that recipient institutions receiving loans would be able to comply with the terms of their loans. However, increases in financial instability at certain HBCUs have affected Federal liability in the program, which are reflected in delinquency rate fluctuations and Department estimates.

Discretionary funding levels for the past 5 fiscal years were:

FY 2023 BUDGET REQUEST

For fiscal year 2023, the Administration requests $20.7 million for the Historically Black College and University (HBCU) Capital Financing Program account, $28 million less than a fiscal year 2022 annualized CR based on the fiscal year 2021 appropriation. The request includes $528,000 for administrative expenses and $20.2 million for new loan subsidy costs.

The fiscal year 2023 request would also lift the restrictions in 20 U.S.C. 1066c(a) which currently prevent Howard University from accessing the HBCU Capital Financing Program. Howard University, similar to all other HBCUs, should have access to low-interest capital financing to address its capital needs. The Administration looks forward to working with Congress to allow Howard University access to the HBCU Capital Financing Program.

The $528,000 requested for administration will also be used to maintain technical assistance services. It is estimated that the requested subsidy amount will be sufficient to guarantee over $750 million in new loans.

PROGRAM PERFORMANCE INFORMATION

Performance measures

This section presents selected program performance information, including, for example, GPRA goals, objectives, measures, and performance targets and data. Achievement of program results is based on the cumulative effect of the resources provided in previous years, and those requested in fiscal year 2023 and future years, as well as the resources and efforts invested by those served by this program. The Department will be reviewing GPRA program performance goals, objectives, and measures for the HBCU Capital Financing Program for possible revision in future years to ensure alignment with Administration policy.

Goal: To improve loan recipients’ overall financial stability and enhance their ability to attract, retain and educate students.

Objective: Total revenues and investment return will increase for loan recipients.

Measure: The percentage of borrowers who increase revenues and investment return annually.

Year	Target	Actual
2018	70	51
2019	70	47
2020	70	67
2021	70
2022	70

Additional information: This performance measure is the percentage of HBCUs that experienced an increase in revenue over the prior year. This measure is one gauge of improved institutional financial stability and capability to fulfill their educational mission. Loans that fund capital and infrastructure improvements are key assets for providing quality postsecondary education. Some HBCUs have significant cash flow problems, which capital improvements from this program are expected to help ameliorate. Revenue is a strong indicator of an institution’s success at maintaining or increasing enrollment, expanding fundraising activities, and, ultimately, the institution’s financial stability. The ability to maintain or increase revenue suggests that an institution will be able to service its debts and maintain its operations. This measure helps to assess the financial solvency of borrowers, which is a gauge of default potential. This measure is calculated as the number of HBCUs in the program that have experienced an increase in revenue over the prior fiscal year, divided by the total number of HBCUs in the program, and multiplied by 100. The data source for total revenues is the National Center for Educational Statistics' (NCES) Integrated Postsecondary Education Data System.

Goal: To improve the capacity of program borrowers to improve student success and provide high-quality educational opportunities for their students.

Objective: Maintain or increase the persistence rate of first-year students at borrower institutions.

HISTORICALLY BLACK COLLEGE AND UNIVERSITY CAPITAL FINANCING PROGRAM ACCOUNT

Measure: The full-time retention rate is the percent of the fall full-time cohort from the prior year minus exclusions from the fall full-time cohort that re-enrolled at the institution as either full or part-time in the current year.

Year	Target	Actual
2018	71%	61%
2019	71	61
2020	71	65
2021	71
2022	71
2023	71

Additional information: New and improved physical facilities can help an institution of higher education increase student persistence. Many of the loans have provided support for student housing and many of the borrowers have explicitly cited the lack of adequate student housing and facilities as a reason for high attrition rates on their campuses in their loan applications. Historically, the persistence rate at HBCUs receiving loans through the capital finance program is about the same as at HBCUs overall. This measure relies on data maintained by NCES.
