

(55)

Macias, Wendy

From: [REDACTED]
Sent: Tuesday, June 23, 2009 5:37 PM
To: negreg09
Subject: Loan Burden

We must restore all consumer protection laws to student loan borrowers.

Past and present students continue to face shrinking job availability and salaries. We're not able to simultaneously cover our basic living expenses and student loans. We live off meager incomes and credit cards, which too have sunk us further and credit has dried up.

Banks and automobile manufacturers received a massive bailout. Ironically, we are the consumers that simultaneously pay for their bailout and patronize them?

Dept. of Education, please petition congress for the full restoration of consumer protection laws to student loan borrowers.

55

Macias, Wendy

From: [REDACTED]
Sent: Tuesday, June 16, 2009 7:24 AM
To: negreg09
Subject: Restore Consumer Protection Laws

We must restore consumer protection laws for student loan borrowers. This should never had been suspended in the first place, especially while we all watched the banks bully congress so that they may both predate (feed) upon the student while in and out of higher education. What a crime for both our government and the banks to inflict upon the student/citizens? We all stand by, watching, while the banks inflict deep wounds upon those that bailed them out?

SG, New York