Subject: Student loans...

I would ask as the Department of Education rethinks the future of learning in our country that it consider calling for the release of the burdensome requirement that consolidated student loans have a fixed interest rate that cannot be refinanced. I have paid nearly $55,000 in interest alone because the freedom to refinance after my initial consolidation was denied to me; I was stuck with a very hefty 8.25% APR as a result and will struggle with my loans for the remainder of my life as a result.
