College of the Muscogee Nation

Classroom Building Project Abstract

The College of the Muscogee Nation, located in Okmulgee, Oklahoma is seeking funding for construction of the Classroom Building on campus. The Classroom Building plan is designed with Native American students in mind to provide additional classroom space to create a positive learning environment critical to student success. In order to enrich our mission, the college seeks to add the Classroom Building to accommodate three new degree programs and the STEM program.

Construction funding from Part F will allow us an opportunity to add classrooms and office space. The Classroom Building would provide four classrooms, an instructional lab, and offices. Although the majority of the space will be utilized for classroom space, we plan to include four offices in the design to accommodate the increasing numbers of students, faculty, and staff of CMN.

The development of this dedicated space will provide a comfortable and supportive learning environment for students. The collaborative effort of this construction project is indicative of the emphasis on student success through faculty/staff support and dedication to this project by The Muscogee (Creek) Nation and the College of the Muscogee Nation.
