Defining Bullying

- Bullying is defined as aggressive behavior, repeated over time, that is intentionally harmful and occurs with no provocation (Olweus, 1991).
- Bullying affects a child’s academic performance.
- Boys are more likely to engage in physical bullying and girls more likely too use relational bullying.
- Evidence is clear bullying is a problem and today’s schools need to develop a comprehensive intervention plan that involves ALL students, staff, parents and ultimately the community.
Most Bullying Occurs Between 9-13

- 70% is verbal
- 50% is emotional
- 31% is physical
- Bullies are more likely to have witnessed fathers abusing mothers.
- Bullies engage in a shopping process targeting victims.
- Girl bullies play mind games ostracizing, ignoring, etc.
- When girls feel unsafe, they align themselves with a bully for protection.
- When children reach middle school age, they are less likely to reach out to adults.
- Today’s bullies become tomorrow’s criminals.
- Power is a major factor in bullying.
What Can Be Done?

• The most effective solution to bullying is to change the atmosphere around the action.
• The first, most important step is to make it clear that bullying will not be tolerated.
• The whole program is about changing the whole school environment so everyone is on the same page. Everyone speaks the same bullying prevention language.
Common Characteristics of Effective Bullying Prevention Programs

- All School Approach
- A positive culture is created.
- Focus on changing the whole environment, not just an individual.
- On-going process that has to be a focal point in the school.
- Becomes part of the curriculum.
- The program is comprehensive and theory based.
- Prevention is better than intervention.
- Program empowers staff by teaching skills to reduce aggression.
- Programs adaptable according to grade/age of students.
Bullying Rules

• We will not bully other students.
• We will help students who are being bullied.
• We will make it a point to include all students who are easily left out.
• When we know someone is being bullied, we will tell a staff member or an adult at home.
Cambridge Elementary School

- Began a formal bullying prevention program in the fall of 2001.
- Original training was two days at the beginning of the year. Everyone including the bus drivers, cooks, playground supervisors, and teachers were inserviced on this program.
- Classroom teachers were responsible for teaching the bullying prevention program directly one hour per week.
- 34 lessons were designed based loosely on The Waging Peace Program. These lessons were designed to focus on the silent majority—the bystanders—those who can make a difference and are the first line of defense against bullies.
In the Beginning…

- The lessons were delivered through weekly classroom meetings.
- Students were asked to talk about bullying issues without using specific names of students.
- Additionally, teachers used children’s books as a springboard to bullying prevention interaction.
Bullying Prevention Improvements

• For the past two years, we have implemented a bullying prevention/aggression coordinator to teach the core curriculum. This instructor goes into the classrooms 1/2 hour weekly to continue waging our war against bullying.

• We have anti-bullying posters, signs and pledges posted throughout the school including the bathrooms and classrooms.

• EVERYONE uses the same terminology when bullying prevention is involved.

• Each class has a “Bully Box” where students can place concerns if they want to remain anonymous.
Students role play scenarios during their lessons to help students learn how to deal with a bully.

- Students are encouraged and applauded for standing up to bullies. Students rally around victims to stop bullying behavior. Students sign an anti-bullying pledge.
- Staff members deal with the bullying issue as it occurs, where it occurs. The problem is not saved for the classroom teacher, but dealt with on the spot.
- Parents are an integral part of the bullying program. They are encouraged to speak with their child about bullying problems if a respect and protect form is sent home.
Statistics

- Cambridge Elementary School’s program has decreased detentions/disciplinary action by 87%.
- Office referrals are down by 92%. The majority of office referrals are “self referrals.” The students want me to hear their bullying problem.
- The anti-bullying policy is carrying over into the community and community members including the local police department talk this same language to our students.
- The community, parents, staff and students truly believe in the program and see the difference it is making in our children.
- Teachers are able to teach instead of dealing with problems related to the playground, hallways, etc. Academic time has increased!!!
Summary Points

• Every school can implement a successful program if everyone believes it can make a difference. A team effort is crucial to its effectiveness.

• New Challenges-Keeping up to date on new materials as bullying changes. At junior high and high school levels, cyberbullying is becoming another way students bully one another. We are finding ways of teaching about cyberbullying.

Poem on Every Classroom Door

Here, you are safe.
Here, I will take care of you.
Here, I will not hurt you.
Here, I will not let anyone hurt you.
Here, you may not hurt anyone.
Here, you will be helped.
Here, I will help you.
Here, you will help.
Here, you will be a friend.
Here, you will have friends.
Here, I will be your friend.
